

CHANDRA GORE

MARKETING & PUBLIC RELATIONS EXPERT

Integrity and hard-work have always been the hallmarks Chandra has used to build successful and profitable businesses through her consulting firm. She has worked with entrepreneurs to help them create foundations for success through her boutique consulting and public relations firm, Chandra Gore Consulting.

Quietly making strides with placements for small businesses, entertainment, authors, therapists, and motivational speaking clients on local and national news outlets she has been leaving her mark as a publicist in the industry. She also heads a production company, SCM Productions, which produces live comedic events and an upcoming Comedy Series, "They Said What?!", that will be launched strictly on Amazon.

Hosting her successful inaugural comedy festival - Greater Northern Virginia Comedy and Film Festival in 2019 - she has anchored herself as a woman to watch in comedy. With a strong feeling of pride in her community, she founded The Urban Flight Foundation to help spread pertinent information, host voter registration drives and more within Stafford County, VA.

She is an author of several books, moderator and speaker on topics such as Business Strategies, Media Relations and Entrepreneurship. Launching Conversations with Chan - her personal brand that includes a podcast, YouTube channel and publication on Medium.com. She is also a member of For(bes) The Culture - a hub for elite leaders of color who are breaking down barriers & impacting culture globally to connect, collaborate and change.